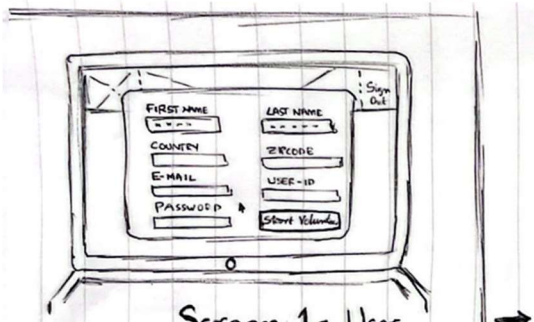
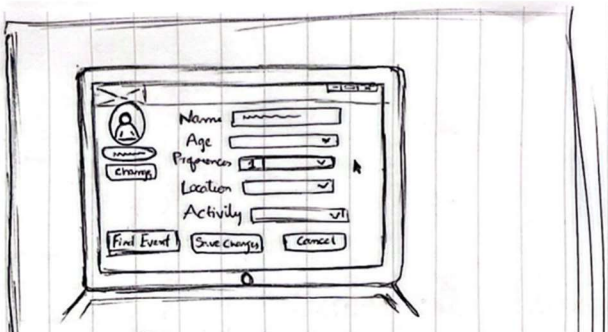
Screen 3 - Persona

Illustration of User Profile when Bob creates it. It contains Goals, Frustrations, Motivations, Domain Experience, Preferred Communication etc which makes Bob engaging and interesting.



Screen 1 - User

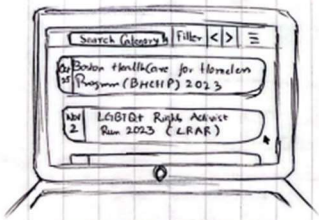
Bob registers for the site and creates log-in creds for his account. Creates user-id and password.



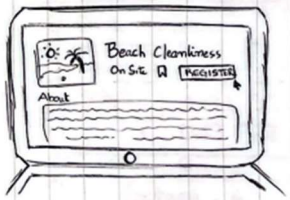
Screen 2 - Profile

Here Bob can create his User profile. He can fill details like his name, age, Location where he wants to volunteer, type of activity like hike, trek, clean, art etc.

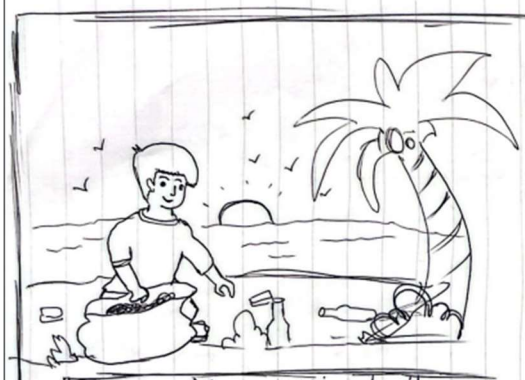
After creating the profile Bob goes to the "Find Event" Button and navigates to the next page



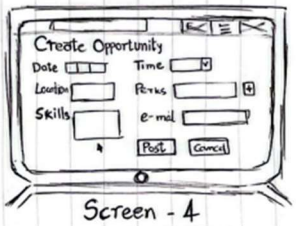
Here Bob can view all the latest posted Volunteering opportunities. He has a "search Category" tab where he can search for what kind of "Volunteering" he is interested in. Also "Filter" button filters based on Organization, Location, Timeline etc.



As Bob was always concerned about pollution caused in Beaches he decides to register for a "Beach cleanliness" volunteering event.



After registering for the Volunteering opportunity Bob goes to the event and fullfills his job and feels satisfied. After succesfully helping, Bob wonders if he can create an opportunity for others to help him volunteer his own event.

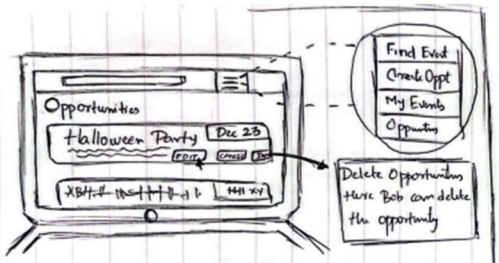


Screen - 4

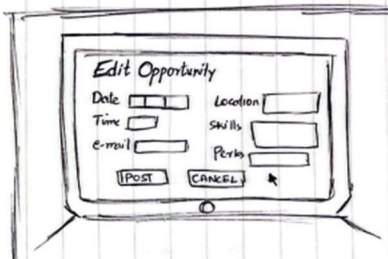
Bob explores Create Opportunity Section where he can create an event by adding the some details like Date, Time, Location, no of people required, e-mail etc. This gives an opportunity to contribute fun for Bob's event when he posts it.

Bob can find "Manage Registration" section at the end of Home page (Screen). Then he can accept or reject the registration application after reading "About" section of the particular Candidate

"After exploring all the features of "Volunteer Wave" application, Bob feels happy and satisfied."



In the menu bar, Bob can find all the sections like "Find Event", "Create Opportunity", "My Events" → which displays all the events which he had registered for. And "Opportunity" where he had created some posts for gathering volunteers. He can even "Edit" the Opportunity



Bob can even Edit his opportunity if he finds the number of volunteers required needs to be changed (or) date of the event needs to get postponed (or) preponed etc.

Storyboard Evaluation and Selection

After careful consideration, we have selected Sammed's storyboards as our preferred choice for several compelling reasons. Sammed's submissions include the crucial information, adhering to the HTA guidelines, and maintaining a concise narrative. They include important elements such as persona names and scenarios while staying focused on the core content and key features. In contrast, Sukruth's storyboard lacks essential elements, deviates from the HTA framework, and features an excessive length without subtask divisions. Sukruth's submission does not align with the expected standards of a proper storyboard.

Similarly, Charan's storyboard is commendably well-structured and effectively incorporates HTA's essential points in a clear manner. However, it falls short in terms of subtask divisions. Consequently, we will not choose Charan's storyboard either. In summary, Sammed's submissions align with our expectations for a proper storyboard, making them the top choice for our project.
